response of the Association is tantamount to giving the Exxon Valdez back to Captain Hazelwood and his crew to deliver the rest of the oil to the lower 48.

Many of us are at a loss to understand why LaPierre and Frazer are still employed by the Association, much less still manning the helm. There are a number of attorneys on the NRA Board, and the Board has a Legal Committee. This is who should be in control of the NRA's legal response to New York, and I dare any member of the Board to publicly explain why that's not what's going on.

That's just one of the many questions I have for the members of the NRA's Board of Directors, and while I think there's little chance of getting any sort of rational response from any of them, I'm going to do my very best to get my questions on the record at the Annual Meeting of Members, which has finally been re-scheduled for Saturday, October 24, 2020, at 9:00 AM, in the Kiva Ballroom of the Loews Ventana Canyon Hotel, Tucson, Arizona, with a Board of Directors meeting scheduled for that same afternoon. No other official events or festivities are expected to take place.

NRA Directors were informed of this meeting by Secretary Frazer on around August 11th or 12th, but there was no mention of it on the NRA's website as of September 4th, when this article had to be submitted for publication. Nor has there been any mention in any of the NRA magazines, even though the Bylaws specifically require that the time, date, and location of the Members' Meeting must be included in two consecutive issues of the official journal, prior to the meeting. (Cue COVID excuse.)

I'm expecting that the three members of the Board of Directors that live in Tucson, all of whom are LaPierre loyalists, will try to leverage their networks, along with some help from the NRA Members' Councils in California, to try and stack the Members' Meeting. With the COVID situation, it's likely that the hotel will have restrictions on the number of people allowed to be in the ballroom. Their website says the ballroom has a capacity of 1000, but I expect that number to be cut by at least 50%. There is a large, connected patio, though, so maybe that would provide some overflow space. It officially only requires 100 Voting Members of NRA to be present to constitute a quorum at an Annual Meeting of Members, so it's a very good idea for people interested in attending and having any chance of being heard, to arrive early — perhaps very early.

As to the meeting itself, over the years, virtually all of the power that the members once had during a Members' Meeting, has been removed. We no longer have the authority to remove officers, change bylaws, or give any orders to the staff or the Board of Directors. They don't even allow members to ask questions about the reports of the officers. I expect the objective for this year's meeting will be to get it over with as quickly as possible, with as little input from the members as they can manage. It's likely that President Carloyn Meadows will turn the gavel over to First Vice President Charles Cotton, because he has more experience and a firmer grasp of how to run a meeting.

Realistically, the best the members can hope for during the Members' Meeting, is to raise some serious questions and convince the spineless cowards that we elected to represent us on the Board, to do their duty and stop kowtowing to the machinations of Wayne LaPierre and Bill Brewer.

If you plan to attend the Members' Meeting, please also plan on staying for the Board of Directors meeting. We're also planning to have one of our famous "Knox Secret Meetings" on Friday evening, so look for information about that. It should be posted at www.FirearmsCoalition.org as soon as we can lock down the details. FN
